The House That Took A Trip Down Ocean Avenue

The old Leidig house, pictured above, arrived at its present location at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Dolores Street in 1929 after a ride down Ocean Avenue, up Lincoln Street, along Sixth Avenue and then up Dolores Street. It was built in 1904 by Edmund Sims on the east side of Dolores Street just south of Ocean Avenue.

Mr. Sims also built the original Pine Inn and White Cedars, a large house which was razed to clear the site of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

He loved attending auctions and at one of them he acquired the big windows of the house. They had been a part of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco and were removed during alterations prior to the earthquake of 1906.

Once the owner of the windows, Mr. Sims planned a house around them and built it in Carmel.

In 1909, the house was bought by Mrs. Elizabeth Leidig and her sons, Robert, Fred, Benjamin and Lawrence. The Leidig family came to California from Illinois in 1900 and became proprietors of Carmel's only grocery store in 1907.

One of the sons, Robert G. Leidig, says the store was situated at the northwest corner of Ocean and San Carlos. The site is still occupied by a grocery store, Kip's.

The only other businesses in town were a drug store and a hardware store, he recalls. There were board sidewalks on Ocean Avenue for two blocks and very few people in Carmel during the winter.

Summers, a horsedrawn stage from Monterey brought many visitors and some of them built houses here. Mr. Leidig says outstanding among these summer residents were professors from Stanford University and one from the University of California who had their homes on Camino Real from Ocean to Seventh avenues. This area became known as Professors' Row.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, who first discovered Carmel in 1880, bought the first site in 1904 at the corner of Camino Real and Seventh. As there were no trees at that time between Camino Real and the beach, the homes on Professors' Row had a sweeping view of Carmel Bay.

In 1929, Mr. Leidig planned to build shops on the land occupied by the old house and wished to move it to its present location. However, there were trees on both sides of Dolores Street in the block north of Ocean Avenue and

Editor's Column

Any adult who has been closely associated with a child of above average intelligence who is unable to learn to read knows true bafflement, especially when the same child is socially well adjusted, physically and emotionally healthy and capable in fields of learning requiring reasoning ability such as arithmetic.

But an adult's bafflement is as nothing compared to the child's distressed confusion as his or her peers, with relatively little effort, master reading.

Following the reading problem comes inability to spell coupled with penmanship difficulties, both

On that humanistic science
Which explains atomic cleavage and its reason.

For though people differ grossly,
Yet by simple contact mostly
We become like those we touch just by adhesion.

Each contact leaves behind a part
Of other people in your heart,
Regardless be it love or fear that you uncover.

Though you met in foreign places
And you may forget their faces,
You unconsciously gain something of each other.

Though to you it may sound funny,
I'm intrigued by smell of money;
I've rubbed shoulders with the rich in pleasant orbit.

Sweet Dame Fortune I have sought her

Yet the fact remains for me I don't absorb it.

Burned Ruins Of Girl Scout House To Be Destroyed

This week, authorized by the board of directors of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council, Mrs. Lee Chamberlain, the council's executive director for the Monterey Peninsula, asked Granite Construction Company to demolish what remains of the Carmel Girl Scout House following a fire on May 1, 1963.

Since this time, the unusable facility has been declared a hazard by the Carmel city council. As a result of the hazardous condition of the Girl Scout house, the council passed an ordinance requiring that such unusable buildings be demolished and not left as a danger and eyesore to the community.

Mrs. Chamberlain says the Girl Scout council, through its attorney, Bud Wyckoff of Watsonville, has a court order for the demolition of what remains of the building.

This morning, Dick Cotchett of Granite Construction Company said the ruins will be razed early next week.

The delay in destroying the remains of the building has been caused by litigation which has gone on for two years. Trustees of the Carmel Girl Scout organization claim that the 40-by-100 foot lot at the northwest corner of Lincoln and Sixth belongs to

Mercuries To Skim Across Carmel Bay In Sunday's Races

Fleet Mercury sailboats of the Stillwater Yacht Club will once again be seen skimming across the bay on Sunday, when two races signal the start of the sailing season at Stillwater Cove in Pebble Beach. The races, one at 11 a.m. and another at 2:30 p.m., will be the first two of the 12-race Championship Series. The five first place boats will be awarded trophies at the final event of the season, the S.F.B. Morse Regatta.

The club is unique in that all boats are of one class—the graceful 18-foot Mercury, which carries a 600-pound lead keel and 156 square feet of sail. Because of its design and weight, it is especially adapted to the high winds and heavy seas of this area. The sloop is manned by a skipper and one-man crew.

Stillwater sailors participating in the opening races are Tom Perry, commodore; George Yates, vice commodore; Dick Catlin, past commodore; Larry Washburn, port captain; and skippers Frank Bray, Dick Clark, Al Cook, Charlotte Clark, John Gilbert, Stephen Gould, Topper Gould, Mark Raggett, Evan Wythe, Van Yates and John Gratiot.

Winners of the 1964 Championship Series were Commodore Richard Catlin, George Yates, Van Yates, Mark Raggett, Evan Wythe, Tom Perry and Larry Washburn.

Food Vending Machines Are Health Hazard, School Physician Tells Trustees

A stunned silence prevailed at the meeting of the Carmel Unified School District board of education meeting last night when Dr. Ferris C. Burleson, who was being asked to reconsider his decision to resign from the position of school physician, stated that one of his reasons for relinquishing his work with the school district was that reports he had made about health hazards in connection with cafeteria food vending machines at the junior and senior high schools had been ignored.

He felt "frustrated, discouraged and of very little use" to the school district, he said, because little had been done to remedy the health hazards he deplored.

In a written report to the board, made this month, Dr. Burleson stated,

"I have on different occasions visited the high school and the junior high school on inspection tours of the kitchen areas from a sanitation aspect. I have found that the eating areas in both schools are very inadequate in their cleanliness. The preparation of the food for the vending machines is not up to standards according to public health techniques. The personnel are handling much of the food that goes into the machines, plus the fact, that portions of the food are not wrapped and are uncovered while in the machines. Grease cans were left uncovered. Garbage had collected in the cans uncovered. Windows were not screened. At this time of the year, however, flies are not a problem but I am sure within the next month that if this situation is not corrected we will have a fly problem. The vending machines themselves were found to be dirty on numerous occasions. The eating area of the students was inadequately cleaned. The tables from which the students eat were found to contain dried food which had been left there for some hours. Floors were littered and the areas around can openers, etcetera, were unsanitary. These conditions, as described, have been previously reported to the administrators of the schools involved and as of this time have not been corrected. To date, we have not suffered an epidemic diarrhetic outbreak. Why this has not occurred under these conditions is hard to visualize. However, we are potentially exposing these youngsters to this type of condition and I feel that it should be rectified."

Mrs. Mary Clayton, school nurse, supported Dr. Burleson's statements on the health hazards presented by the food vending machines in the two schools. She told the board she had on one occasion asked the Monterey County Public Health Department to check conditions under which food was prepared for the junior high machines. Recently, with members of the Citizens Advisory Committee's subcommittee on health she had seen the high school food preparation area for the vending machines for the first time. Heretofore, she said, it had been declared "out of bounds" to her and faculty members by Warren Edwards, high school principal.

She was "deeply concerned"

Mrs. Carpenter

Family services have been held for Mrs. Winifred Barrett Carpenter of Carmel, the wife of Leonard Carpenter, who died at her home Tuesday morning after a long period of failing health. She was 82 years of age and a native of Chicago, Illinois.

A resident for the past 11 years, Mrs. Carpenter and her husband made their home in Medford, Oregon, prior to 1954, when he retired as a fruit rancher.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Carpenter is survived by a sister, Mrs. George Rublee of New York City, and a brother, Robert Le M. Barrett of La Crescenta.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make memorial contributions for Mrs. Carpenter may do so to the Community Hospital Building Fund, Box HH, Carmel.

Building In Carmel During March, April

Construction undertaken in the past two months will add $376,400 to the value of developed real estate in Carmel and presently being processed are plans for a theatre and shop development.

In April, building permits were issued by Building Inspector Richard Thomas for the $196,700 new building for Wells Fargo bank on San Carlos south of Ocean Avenue. Another major addition to the commercial district now under construction is the new $40,000 Union Oil station at the northwest corner of San Carlos and Sixth Avenue. Old buildings were razed on both these sites.

Other additions to the commercial area are a $30,000 triplex apartment development and a $10,900 gallery. A bar and restaurant, a motel and a store have been remodeled and two shops converted into a larger one.

Permits for two new houses in the residence zone have been issued by the building inspector's office, also 26 residential remodeling permits totalling $56,600.

Plans for a theatre and shop complex at the southwest corner of Dolores and Seventh are being processed by professional checkers in the office of the International Conference of Building Officials in Pasadena. Carmel's building inspector is a member of this group, cost $40 a year to the city. In return, all major construction within the city is given professional plan checks.

The nationwide building inspectors' association also writes and publishes the uniform building codes which Carmel uses.

KAUFMAN PLAY OPENS IN MPC LITTLE THEATRE

Captain Cutler To Retire On June 16

After 34 years of service with the U.S. Navy and 12 years as a teacher—ten of them at Monterey Peninsula College—Captain S. Y. Cutler, (USN Ret.) of Carmel is retiring June 16 to "go fishing."

A member of the MPC engineering and mathematics department faculty since 1955, Captain Cutler has taught chemistry, college geography and electronics drawing.

From 1945 to 1947, he was dean of the School of Naval Science and a professor of naval science and tactics at the University of Southern California. During the same period he acted as commanding officer of V-12 and V-5 units at USC, the USC School of Dentistry, the California Institute of Technology and the School of Medical Evangelists (Loma Linda University), and headed the Naval Postgraduate Group, Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory, at Cal Tech.

A native of Bingham Canyon, Utah, Captain Cutler started his naval career in 1920 as a midshipman at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis. Years of sea duty throughout the world were interspersed with postgraduate study at Annapolis, the Columbia University School of Engineering and finally, after his retirement from active service, at the University of California at Berkeley. He was also a student engineer at the General Electric Company in New York and Pennsylvania.

During World War II, Captain Cutler was engineer officer and later executive officer of the USS Tennessee, and commanding officer of the USS Dobbin. In 1950 he was a member of the Joint Strategic Plans and Operations Group in Tokyo, Japan, on General Douglas MacArthur's staff.

Captain and Mrs. Cutler have two children. They are Lieutenant Lee M. Cutler (USN) who is stationed on the Polaris submarine Lewis & Clark and Miss Shirley Cutler, who lives in San Francisco.

Their plans for the future include spending the summer "fishing and visiting" in Florida and the fall in Hawaii. After that, Captain Cutler says, "We plan to use Carmel as our base of operations and from there to travel extensively."

Subcommittee On Mathematics Commends Curriculum In Report Presented To Board Of Education

The Citizens Advisory Committee's subcommittee on mathematics was impressed with the curriculum for this subject in the Carmel Unified School District, the board of education learned last week when members of this subcommittee discussed their report with school trustees.

The report was prepared by Richard Hirschkind, Mrs. Carl Menneken, Edward Neroda, Dr. Robert Wirtz and Dr. Jack Borsting, chairman. It is printed below in its entirety.

REPORT

"The Carmel school system should be commended for following vigorously the proposals of earlier citizens' committees, using new methods and approaches to teaching mathematics, organizing in-service training programs and instituting instructional programs for parents. This subcommittee decided to make recommendations and comments in three areas: textbooks, instructors and the curriculum.

INSTRUCTORS

"It is our understanding that in grades 9 through 12 the instruction of mathematics is departmentalized. The subcommittee recommends that more thought be given to team and group instruction or to any other means in order to make specialists available in the elementary grades. Two important requisites for mathematics instructors are knowledge and enthusiasm about their subject. Any teacher lacking these should be provided with additional opportunity to see mathematics in a more creative light, or be permitted to focus his abilities in another area. All of the teachers of the Carmel school district who attended committee meetings had these qualities.

TEXTBOOKS

"Although good textbooks will supplement the quality of instruction, the subcommittee feels there is no real substitute for good teachers. A good instructor can teach mathematics well with any of the current instructional material; however, using better textbooks when they become available would obviously improve the instruction. The subcommittee was pleased with the use of programmed texts in certain grades. There is little advantage to confining the procurement of textbooks to one series or to one publisher. A variety of textbooks by different authors, presenting a variety of approaches to the same concept, is preferable.

"A student's education in mathematics should be an integral part of a broad curriculum; however, this does not mean that mathematics should be taught to the exclusion of other subjects. A conscientious effort needs to be made to present mathematics as an important part of our culture. Such efforts could be initiated by a program to popularize the extensive literature in this subject written in lay language, other than textbooks, that is now missing from almost every home and missing from too many classrooms. The schools might undertake the updating of the NCTM bibliography and make it available to the community. A few suggestive titles are included as an enclosure. Schools might also look into the possible use of the "Mathematics Student Journal," published periodically by NCTM.

CURRICULUM

"The subcommittee was in general quite impressed by the curriculum in the Carmel schools as it was described to us. We are happy to find that the curriculum advisors are encouraging as many students as possible to pursue a normal algebra-geometry-trigonometry or college preparatory course, even if they do not intend to go to college—in fact, especially if they do not intend to go to college. If their high school is going to give them all the formal mathematics instruction they will ever get, they should be encouraged to go as far as they can.

The subcommittee recognizes that there are a few basic fundamentals (symbols, operations, multiplication tables, etc.) that must be learned by everyone, by extensive rote if necessary, if they are to get on in mathematics. This is an area where a great amount of teaching skill is required. The instructor must inspire the students to surmount this hurdle without closing their minds to further learning."

Edith Maddock

Mrs. Edith Elaine Carmody Maddock, the wife of Roddie Maddock, died Monday at her home in Hatton Fields Mesa. She was born in Pacific Grove January 3, 1879, and lived in this area all of her life.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Maddock leaves a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Storme of Porterville, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon in the Mission Mortuary Chapel, Monterey, with Reverend Paul J. Baird of the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey officiating. Burial will follow in Cementerio El Encinal, Monterey.

Pall bearers will be Colonel W. B. Wells, Chester Stalter, Dr. William Shanner, Henry Lopez, George Grogan and Charles Obermeyer.

Friends wishing to make contributions in the memory of Mrs. Maddock may do so to the Mission Trails Heart Association, Box 1329, Monterey.

Welsh Corgi Show In Valley Saturday

One hundred and eleven Welsh Corgis, including 30 national and international champions, are registered for the annual Welsh Corgi Dog Show at the Carmel Valley Inn on Saturday. They comprise the largest number of this particular breed ever to be entered in a show and come from Canada as well as the United States.

Judging the Welsh Corgis will be Mrs. Dickie Albin of Kent, England, who is flying here just for this one show.

Among local entrants showing their Corgis are Colonel and Mrs. Bruce Hanger, Mrs. David Forsburgh, Mrs. Ruth Buol and Mr. and Mrs. Derek Rayne.

The event, for which there is no charge, will start at noon on Saturday and run to approximately 6 p.m.

Sadie J. Book

Funeral services for Mrs. Sadie J. Book of Carmel Highlands were held Tuesday at Mission Mortuary chapel in Monterey. Mrs. Book, a resident of this area for five years, died Saturday night in a Peninsula nursing home after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Woodland, California, January 3, 1879.

Mrs. Book is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Veryl Book Virden of Carmel and Mrs. David Rust of San Leandro; a brother, Franklin J. Stahl of Sacramento; and three sisters, Mrs. Richard West and Mrs. Harry Criss of San Bruno, and Mrs. Will Gibson of San Francisco. Her husband, the late Edward W. Book, died in 1935.

Burial took place in East Lawn Cemetery in Sacramento.

Wouldn't it be helpful if you could buy or sell property through one Realtor, and yet have the benefit of the services, or listings, of many others? The Carmel Board of Realtors think so too, and that is why, eight years ago, its Multiple Listing Service was established. Only Realtors are entitled to participate in the Listing Service. Sellers like to expose their property to the prospects of, and employ the efforts of all Realtors and their salesmen. Buyers enjoy the convenience of the "One Stop" look at the market, knowing that the properties they are shown are professionally inspected and listed.

During the last four months, the Carmel Board of Realtors, through its Multiple Listing Service, sold $748,450.00 worth of your property — and many millions of dollars worth since it was established.

Carmelites Visit Maui

Mrs. Andrew Del Monte and her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Woodhull, have developed what might be called "instant travel," for their decisions to head for faraway places are usually spontaneous. Their latest inspiration was a two-week junket to the Hawaiian Islands by jet plane, allowing them to enjoy the maximum time there. According to Mrs. Del Monte, a highlight of their visit was a stay on Maui.

Church Officers Elected

John Anderson, newly elected board president of the Church in the Round, succeeds Gerry Fowler who is enrolling at the University of Michigan School of Social Work for his master's degree in that field. Gerry and his wife, Jean, plan to return to the Peninsula in about 16 months.

Other new officers for the church include Mrs. Jane Harris, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Arndt, treasurer; and Mrs. Shirley Walker, secretary.

Pacific Visitors Return

The magic names of Tahiti, Bora Bora, and Raiatea came alive again for the Matthew C. Jenkinses, who have just returned from a three-week visit to the Society Islands in the South Pacific. While in the area, they also went ashore on the island of Tahaa, close to Raiatea, to beachcomb on the sands there. Beachcombing, in fact, with diving for shells and snorkeling in the limpid waters of lagoons, occupied much of the time left over from simply enjoying their suroundings. Color slides, taken both underwater and on land, will help the Jenkinses share their Polynesian adventure with their friends.

WANTED — PICTURES

The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department will be 50 years old this summer. To celebrate the half-century of its existence, present members of the department are planning special anniversary events on July 15, 16 and 17. For this celebration they would like pictures of former firemen and fire chiefs, also the first Carmel firehouses and fire engines. Anyone who has photographs of these, or activities of the department through the years, is asked to lend them to the department in order to make the events Chief James R. Belvail and his men are planning even more interesting for the community.

Planners Consider Motel Density, Bulk And Site Proposals

Yesterday, as the first step in a study to explore controls to limit the construction of more motels in Carmel, as requested by the city council, planning commissioners looked at factual material prepared for them by Planning Director Floyd Adams.

This showed that there are 44 licensed motels in the city with a total of 747 units; three hotels with 148 units; and 6 apartment developments with 58 units. Total 953 units.

The material also showed that three of the motels were illegal in respect to zoning and that a total of 45 motel nonconformancies existed. Eight nonconformancies were listed for hotels and nine and one-half for the apartments. These nonconformancies embraced the number of rooms to ground area, parking and landscaping requirements, signs and zoning.

Mr. Adams told commissioners that he thought they could limit motel building expansion by creating a new zone, C-1-SM, situated north of Sixth Avenue where most of the motels are located. Motels would then only be allowed in this area. Elsewhere they would require a use permit.

He added that a maximum allowable site size would further control the building of more motels. Bulk could be controlled by limiting the percentage of ground coverage permissible for motel construction. Density could also be controlled in the proposed motel zone.

Planning commission action, yesterday, was to adopt a report of the land use committee recommending that Robert E. Little be allowed to combine Carmel Sands and Snug Harbor motels into one site and relocate the swimming pool on this property providing motel units are not built on nearby land, either owned or leased by Mr. Little.

TOWN HOUSE EVENTS

"The Population Boom" will be the subject of the Great Decisions program on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Carmel Foundation Town House. Refreshments will be served after the program. Anyone interested is welcome to participate or listen from the sidelines.

On Wednesday at the Town House, C. Edward Graves will show colored slides of Crater Lake, once at 1:30 p.m. and again at 3 p.m. Tea will be served at 4 p.m.

Rummage Sale

Bargains galore, from men's clothing to garden supplies, are being stockpiled for the Annual Rummage Sale at All Saints' Episcopal Church on June 3 in the Parish Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A snack bar will be open all day, and luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Nursery care will be available throughout the sale hours.

Members and friends of the church who have not yet brought in their rummage, which must be in good condition, are urged to bring it to the Parish Hall (or, for information on pick-up, to phone Mrs. Kirke Erskine at 624-1807 or Mrs. Thomas White at 624-3014, co-chairmen for the event).

Pat Boyle Married

Although Pat Boyle and Judy Zundel announced their engagement at Idaho State University in February, no wedding was planned for a long time. Therefore, news of their marriage on April 24 came as an "expected surprise" to Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boyle of Carmel. For the ceremony in Pocatello, Harrison Hilbert of Carmel and a classmate of Pat's, served as best man. The bride's matron of honor was her cousin, Mrs. "Teddy" Silcott.

The new Mrs. Boyle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Zundel of Ashton, Idaho, who held a reception in their home for the newlyweds. She attended Utah State College at Logan, Utah, and is now a student at Idaho State University.

Pat, a Carmel High School graduate, attended Monterey Peninsula College before enrolling in Idaho State University. A third-year education major, he is affiliated with Sigma Nu fraternity, whose campus quarters were the setting for another reception given for the young couple. He has one brother, Gary, a student at Carmel High School.

Among the winners of $400 instrumental music scholarships in Monterey Peninsula College's annual auditions last Friday is David Schetter, Carmel High School senior, whose instruments are the clarinet and tenor saxophone. Judges for the auditions were Dr. Harvey Marshall, MPC music department chairman, Miss Angie Machado, Henry Smith and George Loganzo, all of the MPC music faculty. The scholarships are financed by the Monterey Jazz Festival.

While her husband is undergoing treatment, Mrs. Posner is staying at the Cartwright Hotel in San Francisco.

Purdy, music instructor at the junior high school, special secondary credential in music; and Herbert R. Reuter Jr., junior high science instructor, a junior high school credential.

Candy House Featured

The May issue of the National Candy Wholesaler, trade journal of the association of National Candy Wholesalers, features as a suggested display for its members and retailers the fascinating candy house created by Dick Vallaire for the Carmel Drive-in Market last Christmas. As mentioned in the Pine Cone previously, the two-story house was constructed from hundreds of vari-colored pieces of candy of different varieties, "mortared" painstakingly together with a paste of powdered sugar. The magazine article shows a picture of the display with a description of its construction and a bit about its builder.

Dick received a letter of commendation from the organization, as well as an invitation to visit its president in Washington, D.C. This he will do while on his vacation trip to visit his mother in Michigan.

Carmelights by Piñon

We went up to the big Mothers' Day barbecue at Prince's Camp. It was wonderful. Rex White really put on a fine one this year. There was just one uncomfortable moment in the whole happy affair. We were all sitting there gnawing away and thinking, "Could anything be lovelier?" when a little girl said gravely to no one in particular, "Just think, this chicken might've been somebody's mother, too."

Nancy Lofton walked into a store the other day and saw Claudia Street looking very perplexedly at some bolts of cloth. "What are you up to?" asked Nancy. "I'm making slip covers for the living room and I'm trying to decide which material will hide the most mistakes. I make them so sloppily," sighed Claudia. "Oh," Nancy said encouragingly, "You make slop covers."

One of the things Cub Scouts get credit for is having their parents attend pack meetings. The meetings, unless you are a Cub, can be a bit dull; but each boy manages to bring at least one parent each time.

When pack meeting night came last month, one of our most going-est, doing-est mothers had just had it, so she said to her husband, "Honey, will you take him tonight?" "Why, certainly," the darling replied and leaped from his chair to do his love's bidding. She smiled gratefully at him and snuggled down to her book. Ten minutes later he was back watching the cowboys.

Well, groaned the poor lady as she dragged herself to the car, he did take him.

Anybody who has had trouble with English—and who hasn't?—will appreciate this story.

A foreigner, who had struggled for years with all the utterly ridiculous inconsistencies in our wonderful language, thought he had it all under control finally. Then one day while reading the paper, he gave up. "That does it!" he cried, "I quit!" "Why?" a friend asked. "Well, I finally got it straight about 'thought' and 'through' and 'bough' and 'enough' and 'said' and 'rain' and 'treat' and 'bread' and all those, but this is too much. Now this paper tells me 'Oklahoma is pronounced success!'"

I know it's been pointed out before but I don't think it can be said too often: We have the nicest police force in the world. I broke a rule last week—or, infracted, as we regulars put it—and got ordered over to the side, and never in my life have I been called a no good, lousy, dangerous, vicious, sapheaded bum in such friendly, cultured words.

When Lee Hare came back from his hitch-hiking trip around the world he brought several exotic creatures with him. Pretty soon, he was off again and his mother, bless her soul, took over for him. You grandmothers think it's hard changing babies again after all these years? Try doing it to a gibbon sometime!

Our children were hopefully wondering if they got to take the Sunset School sundial with them when the big move comes so I asked Orville Rogers about it. "Sundial?" he said, "Forgot we had one." We went out and looked at it. "Obviously, it stays here," he told me, "being part of the building, but tell the kids not to feel bad. With this daylight saving it's a whole hour and 58 seconds off."

My, my, the progress that's been made in sporting equipment! A friend showed me his new fishing kit and you never saw so much hardware in your life! He's got enough junk in there to fill six Christmas stockings. And tuna fishing! Guess what they're using now to find tuna. Balloons. That's what I said, 52 feet wide propane-heated-air-filled dacron balloons. One of my little billets-doux from the Fish and Wildlife Service informs me that tuna boats may soon be towing balloon-borne lookouts who will spot schools from as high as 500 feet.

Seems hard to believe that in my day we went fishing with some string, a pin and an old piece of bacon.

Did you know today was Lafayette Day? It is. It's also Mecklenberg, North Carolina Declaration of Independence Day, Eliza Doolittle Day, Garden Club Day and the beginning of National Pickle Week.

And I bet you thought nothing important happened this day except the Pine Cone.

Early day telephone directories were usually just lists of folks in town who had service, with an explanation of how to crank the phone to get the operator's attention. But not any more. The first few pages in today's phone books are filled with lots of useful information: numbers to call in emergencies, for telephone repair service, for assistance on calls, and to order new services or changes. They give instructions for speeding long distance calls and a list of Area Codes. These "how-to" pages will help you get top value from your telephone service. And that's a pretty good reason for using them.

Remember in case of an emergency, your Monterey operator can always help you.

Your telephone bill still includes the 10% Federal Excise Tax initiated during World War II. Telephone service is the only household utility so taxed. This cost Pacific Telephone subscribers in California an extra $102 million last year. We believe this tax should be removed. You, the customer, would get the total saving.

Today's safety tip: If you want to avoid that "run-down" feeling, don't jaywalk.

Some henpecked husbands may have considered getting an extension phone for the dog house. But one customer I heard about wanted an extension phone for the pigeon coop . . . and he got it. A homing pigeon racer, he'd be in the coop timing flight arrivals while other pigeon race fans were calling his house to see how the race was going. You might say he was all in a flap, running back and forth. And so he had a step-saving extension phone installed in the pigeon coop. Our installers aim to please.

Community Church Pipe Organ Fund Benefit On Sunday

"Pipe Dream" will be an event to establish the pipe organ fund of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula. On Sunday a piano quartet and a lyric soprano will present a concert for friends and members of the church at Druid Hills, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Swim. A tea will follow the afternoon's program.

The name for the musical was inspired by the dream of a pipe organ in a building yet to be constructed, since the church, although well established, is temporarily housed in a school building. Sponsor of the event is the women's association of the church.

The piano quartet is composed of Mrs. Eugene C. Crittenden Jr., Mrs. Edmund A. Milne, Mrs. Orval H. Polk and Mrs. Dudley Swim. They have chosen a program of great variety including Bach's Fughetta No. 18 and Mozkowski's Valse Brillante. Solos of lyric soprano, Mrs. Douglas Graham, who will be accompanied by Mrs. William James Farlinger, include compositions of Mozart, Handel and Massenet.

Mrs. Arthur E. Johnson, "Pipe Dream" chairman, will be assisted by circle and guild members. Mrs. Ted Fehring, Mrs. Eugene Harrah and Mrs. A. F. Svantesson are in charge of the patio tea and Mrs. Walter Burde of the decorations.

To facilitate parking, transportation will be available from the Junior High School, which is directly opposite the entrance to Druid Hills.

Only a few tickets remain for the Sunday presentation at 3 p.m. However, a preview is planned for Saturday afternoon at the same time, when refreshments will be served by the Ikthys Youth Fellowship of the church. Anyone wishing reservations may phone Mrs. Willis I. Shepard at 624-3179.

Scholarships To Be Awarded On Monday

L'Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula will award three scholarships to students of the French Language at a special event to be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Institute of Foreign Studies in Monterey.

The scholarship program, now in its fourth year, is enlarging its scope (heretofore limited to a student of the Monterey Peninsula high schools) to include an outgoing student of Monterey Peninsula College and to someone who is planning to teach French.

The competing finalists from the high schools are Bonnie Stockman of Seaside and Peggy Cole of Carmel. The name of the winner will be announced at the award-giving ceremony. Judith Jenkins of MPC will receive a $100 award and a summer scholarship presented by the Institute of Foreign Studies.

Selected for special honor is Mrs. Edward Faridany, (the former Nancy Lofton) who will receive a cash award of $100 toward a summer scholarship at the Institute. Her mother, Mrs. Richard Lofton, will accept the award in her place, since Nancy will not arrive from the East until June to work toward a master's degree in French at the Institute.

On behalf of education in Monterey County, please accept my thanks for the excellent job you did in publicizing the recent school trustee elections.

If the information is presented to the people, they will make proper decisions. The time and effort you and your staff devoted to this end was considerable, and was much appreciated by us in education.

Again, thank you very much for your help. I look forward to working with you in the future in whatever way I can.

Sincerely,

I understand that the Monterey County Industrial Development (MCID) deserves chief credit for persuading Humble Oil & Refining Company to make a bid for construction of a refinery at Moss Landing.

Undoubtedly this should be of great comfort to the owners of land immediately adjacent, but to a large proportion of taxpayers in Monterey County, there is consternation, to put it lightly, that our tax dollars are being spent to bring in "Smokestack" industry.

John Maga, chief of the Bureau of Air Sanitation, California Department of Public Health, states "25% of Los Angeles air pollution is caused by industry," Phillip A. Leighton, for many years, chairman of the chemistry department at Stanford, tells us in a Pomona College bulletin that sources other than automobiles contribute 33 1/3% of nitrogen oxides and 20% of reactive hydrocarbons.

In a news item appearing in the San Francisco Chronicle, May 11, 1965, Mr. D. J. Callaghan, chief administrative officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, says that automobiles contribute 52% of California's air pollution.

It should be obvious that additional smokestack industry must be kept out of our county. Santa Barbara will have none of it. Their air is still clean and so is ours so far.

To return to my original point, a review of the 1964-1965 Monterey County budget, indicates MCID is subsidized to the extent of $15,000 per annum. As those tax dollars are yours and mine, it would seem time that our supervisors tell MCID to confine its attention to securing clean industry and keep out smokestack industry.

Very truly yours,
Malcolm W. Steel

Animal Shelter Survey Completed

A survey of animal shelter needs in the Monterey Peninsula area has been completed by a special team of the California branch of the Humane Society of the United States, Lady Kinnoull of Carmel, president of the Monterey Peninsula SPCA, announces.

During the survey, public animal shelters, pet stores and stables were inspected. Operators of these public and private facilities were cooperative and only a small number of minor infractions were found, Belton P. Mouras, executive director of the California SPCA branch reported to Lady Kinnoull.

Michael Buckley, state humane officer who accompanied the team, said: "We've established liaison with law enforcement agencies and through the kind cooperation of Tim Michaud, president of the Del Monte Properties, Inc., we hope to achieve re-adoption of the animal control ordinance within Del Monte Forest for the protection of domestic pets as well as wildlife in that area."

The need for a stronger humane education program in this area was urged by the visiting group. It is planned also to form a volunteer organization to help raise funds for animal welfare work. The first fund-raising event probably will be a fashion show in the fall.

The team also included the HSUS state program director Patricia Morse, educational director Don Donaldson and Jan Hendrix, records administrator.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Soul and Body" is the subject at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The Responsive Reading will include this verse from Psalms: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God" (Ps. 84:2).

Related passages will be read from the Christian Science textbook, including these lines: "Belief in material suffering causes mortals to retreat from their error, to flee from body to Spirit, and to appeal to divine sources outside of themselves" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 405).

Junior High School Soon Will Have To Join Sewer System

The Carmel Unified School District, in the very near future, will be required to tie in the junior high school with the Carmel Sanitary District sewer system, Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield reported to the board of education last week.

The report was the result of a meeting of large property owners at the entrance to Carmel Valley called on April 30 by the Monterey County Health Department.

At this meeting, the county announced that it is refusing to grant permission to several additional Carmel Valley subdivisions unless an adequate sewage disposal system is provided.

On the basis of a trunk line which will cost each 1-acre property owner $300 and then, at the time of connection to the sewer system, an additional $250 for future enlargement of the sewage treatment plant, Mr. Greenfield estimated that it will cost the school district a little over $30,000 to comply with the county's sewage disposal mandate.

The junior high school at present has a septic tank system.

no particular problems to the child's classmates. There also may be marked difficulty in expressing ideas vocally.

Deep humiliation often besets this child followed by terrific emotional strain. He or she may have nightmares, begin to stutter, become a behavior problem, or just give up.

Years may go by and then, miraculously, the gate to reading will open. Too often, though, before this time arrives the child has become convinced that he or she is stupid and set apart. To no avail have teachers and parents told this child that his or her intelligence is high.

Last Saturday, I had the experience of sitting with several hundred persons all concerned with the solution to the problem presented by such a child.

The occasion was a symposium on the obscure causes of school failure presented by the Charles Dorsey Armstrong Memorial Foundation at Menlo College.

Considered were the identification and treatment of children with specific language disabilities and related problems, especially specific dyslexia, a neurological language disability problem.

Children with this problem reverse the order of letters in words. They cannot recognize sounds and their visual memory is unreliable. This condition is caused by a lag in neurophysiological development.

Eventually, most of them will reach neurophysiological maturity and the gate to reading will, miraculously, open.

No longer will a word be a confused jumble of unrelated letters.

Unfortunately, by this time many of them will have psychological problems; all of them will be years behind their peers in reading ability. Some of them will be lost, forever, educationally.

But early diagnosis and proper instruction enable dyslectics to learn to read; realize the potentials of their superior intelligence; prevent psychological problems.

The diagnosis is arrived at by expert psychological, physiological and neurological testing and should be done, preferably, in kindergarten.

Proper reading instruction for dyslectics is laborious, step by step, phonetic word analysis undertaken by patient, expert teachers trained especially for their work.

Saturday's symposium in Menlo Park was attended by teachers, principals, school board members, pediatricians, psychologists and parents of dyslectic children.

All were learning, from experts, what can be done in relation to dyslexia. All went away from the symposium, which lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., stimulated by knowledge and determined to help dyslectic children.

It was an exciting experience!

This week, I have found out that the Carmel Unified School District, as yet, has no instructional program for dyslectic children.

The Monterey school system has been providing individual tutorial instruction for dyslectics for three years. Next year this system plans to have two classes for children with special problems, including dyslectics, supported by funds available under AB 464 which allows $640-$915 per child.

Monterey has a testing program for dyslectics carried on by its own psychologists in cooperation with local pediatricians and neurologists. Many cases are referred to Stanford University and the University of California for psychological, physiological and neurological testing.

The Palo Alto school system also has an instruction program for dyslectics and can use Stanford for diagnostic purposes. However, even with this, many dyslectics are not receiving proper instruction, as yet. There are too many of them.

A pediatrician at the Menlo Park symposium said, "We must form groups, find trained teachers, get with this problem I have learned so much about today.".

I felt the same way.

I hope that what I learned Saturday and am passing on to others may prevent some child from suffering years of reading misery before the gate to reading opens.

MPC Chorus Excels In Verdi's 'Requiem' With County Symphony

By Douglas Taylor

The final concert of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra for the 1964-65 season was given on Tuesday in Sunset School auditorium with the Monterey Peninsula College Chorus and four soloists singing the great "Requiem" by Verdi.

The orchestra, directed by its gifted conductor, John Gosling, accompanied discreetly and sympathetically and gave good intonation apart from an occasional lapse. The brass section really had a field day (or night) and Dorothy Shimer put in some pretty powerful percussion work.

In the "Dies Irae," the score marks "trumpets afar", in addition to the trumpets in the orchestra. As this reviewer was, unfortunately, seated in the back row of the balcony, this was somewhat of a misnomer to him as the "trumpets afar" operated from the rear of the balcony and were "trumpets in ear."

Verdi, essentially an operatic composer, calls for voices of heroic stature in his "Requiem." Truly Nancy Cronburg, in appearance, is every inch a dramatic soprano and her last high C was achieved, but her voice quality in her last "Libera Me", two octaves lower, was more pleasant and I wonder if she might be more successful in the vocal range of the operatic mezzo-soprano.

The mezzo-soprano, Claudia White, was suffering from a heavy cold, therefore no criticism would be appropriate. It will be good to hear her again.

Robert Glover has a true, firm lyric tenor voice, not ideal for the part he had Tuesday. He will be more at home in Puccini or Mozart. However, he sang with feeling and a good legato line—a very fine performance.

The so-called bass, Marvin Klebe, is a baritone and coped very well with a part designed for a bass or basso-cantante. His high E had a thrilling sound which makes one think of him in such parts as Rigoletto, Iago or Amonasro.

The highlight of the evening, to me, was the "Sanctus" sung most beautifully by the Monterey Peninsula College Chorus.

The hero of the evening was John Gosling and, as I said before, we are most fortunate in having such a magnetic, sympathetic and talented music director.

I am looking forward to next season which opens in Carmel on October 19. It will mark the 20th anniversary of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

Alice Kellogg

Family services were held last week at the Mission Mortuary Chapel for Mrs. Alice Lovell Kellogg, who died at her Carmel home last Friday morning. Her death is a loss to the community for which she cared, and to which she contributed in so many ways during her 30 years' residence.

Mrs. Kellogg, who was born in New York City February 2, 1882, was the wife of the late Lee Olds Kellogg, retired mining engineer and one-time president of the Carmel Sanitary Board. She was the sister-in-law of Miss Ella Kellogg and Miss Clara Kellogg, a former city councilman, both of whom were also active in civic affairs.

Mrs. Kellogg attended private schools in New York and was graduated from Bryn Mawr College in 1903.

Following her marriage in 1907, she and her husband spent several years in mining camps in Mexico. Later, with their four children, they lived for 12 years in the American mining camp of Portovelo in central Ecuador. A booklet written in 1959 by Mrs. Kellogg, a talented writer of prose and poetry, contains a vivid description of the family's experiences in this country. Returning to the United States in 1928, they resided in Palo Alto until 1935 when they established a home in Carmel.

Mrs. Kellogg was one of the founders of the local Girl Scouts and an active member of the Carmel P.T.A., American Association of University Women, Peninsula League of Women Voters, Carmel Women's Democratic Club and the Audubon Society.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. J. R. (Ruth) Woodyard of Berkeley and Mrs. V. J. (Mary) Chapman of Fullerton; a son, John L. Kellogg of Larchmont, New York; two brothers, John K. Lovell and William C. Lovell of Yonkers, New York, and six grandchildren.

Following the private services, inurnment took place in El Carmelo Cemetery, Pacific Grove.

Friends wishing to make memorial donations for Mrs. Kellogg may do so to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

PUBLIC INVITED TO HEAR CDWC SPEAKER

Aileen Clarke Hernandez, recently named by President Johnson to the national board of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, will be the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Carmel Democratic Women's Club at Neptune's Table, Monterey Wharf, on Tuesday at noon.

Mrs. Hernandez, presently assistant chief of the Division of Fair Employment Practices for the State, was seelcted as 1961 "Woman of the Year" by the Community Relations Conference of Southern California. She graduated magna cum laude in political science and sociology from Howard University, holds an M.A. in government from Los Angeles State College, and did graduate work in comparative government at University of Oslo in Norway. As a specialist in labor education for the U.S. State Department, Mrs. Hernandez traveled in Latin America and in this country, speaking on the status of women.

The meeting is open to the public, and charge for the lunch is $2.25.

DO YOU KNOW WHERE THEY ARE?

The Carmel High School Class of 1955 is planning a reunion on July 4 at the Casa Munras. The whereabouts of some of those who graduated ten years ago is unknown. Patricia (Ricketts) Sippell is asking anyone who can give her the addresses of missing classmates to telephone her at 624-1788. She wants to know how to reach Leigh Buchanan, Craig Chapman, Mary Garcia, Karen Johnson, Peggy Timmons and Sasha Willcox.

A TRIP FOR MISS JAMES

Miss Dorothy James, executive director of the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross, left for a vacation at the beginning of the month. Her first stop was Pasadena, where her sister joined her for a leisurely drive into Mexico. A postcard from her indicates that they enjoyed a few days in Hermosillo before proceeding to Guaymas. They will remain in Guaymas part of the month, then travel about to other areas.

them, not to the Monterey Bay council. The lot was deeded to the Carmel Girl Scouts in 1928 by the Carmel library which had acquired it from Mary Louise Morgan in 1921. A superior court decision on this matter is still pending, and on this decision depends who will get the lot and $19,300 insurance money on deposit with the county clerk.

In the meantime, the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council has allocated $940 for the demolition project and obtained the court order allowing it.

Trustees of the Carmel Girl Scouts maintain that when this group affiliated with the Monterey Bay Council it did not relinquish title to the Girl Scout House and site. Trustees appointed by Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson on October 10, 1963, are Mary Jane Aldrich, Carol Thompson, Jane Hudson, Lois Pilot and Lois Wermuth. A technical cloud on the title to the property exists because trustees were not named when the lot was given to the Girl Scouts in 1928. The last remaining 1928 trustee, Mrs. Isabel Leidig, died in 1961.

The House That Took A Trip Down Ocean Ave.

the city council would not allow him to cut even one limb in order to move the house up the street.

So another route was chosen and the house made the trip described at the beginning of this story.

Mr. Leidig says the future of the house is uncertain. Offers have been made to rent the land on which the house stands and negotiations are in progress.

Whether prospective lessees of the land will tear down the house or not, he does not know.

In 1910, Mr. Leidig married Isabel Martin of the Mission Ranch. Mrs. Leidig died in 1961 but her husband, who is Carmel's fire marshal and a former fire chief, still occupies the apartment above the stores which they built on the Dolores Street land made available when the old house took its trip through the business district to its present location.

Vending Machines Are Health Hazard, School Physician Tells Trustees

about conditions she discovered on her behind-the-scenes visit, she declared.

Trustee Dr. Hilton Bialek asked Dr. Burleson if there had been any incidence of illness in the past three years which could be traced to the vending machines.

"No, but give it time!" Dr. Burleson replied and advised the board to return to school cafeteria operation.

Superintendent Medill Bair emphasized that the county public health department made periodic "surprise" visits to the two schools and any infringement of health conditions reported to him had been attended to and no major infringements had ever been reported. Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield, after the meeting, showed the Pine Cone the county health department reports for this school year. They supported Mr. Bair's statement. One after another contained the written statement, "no major infringements."

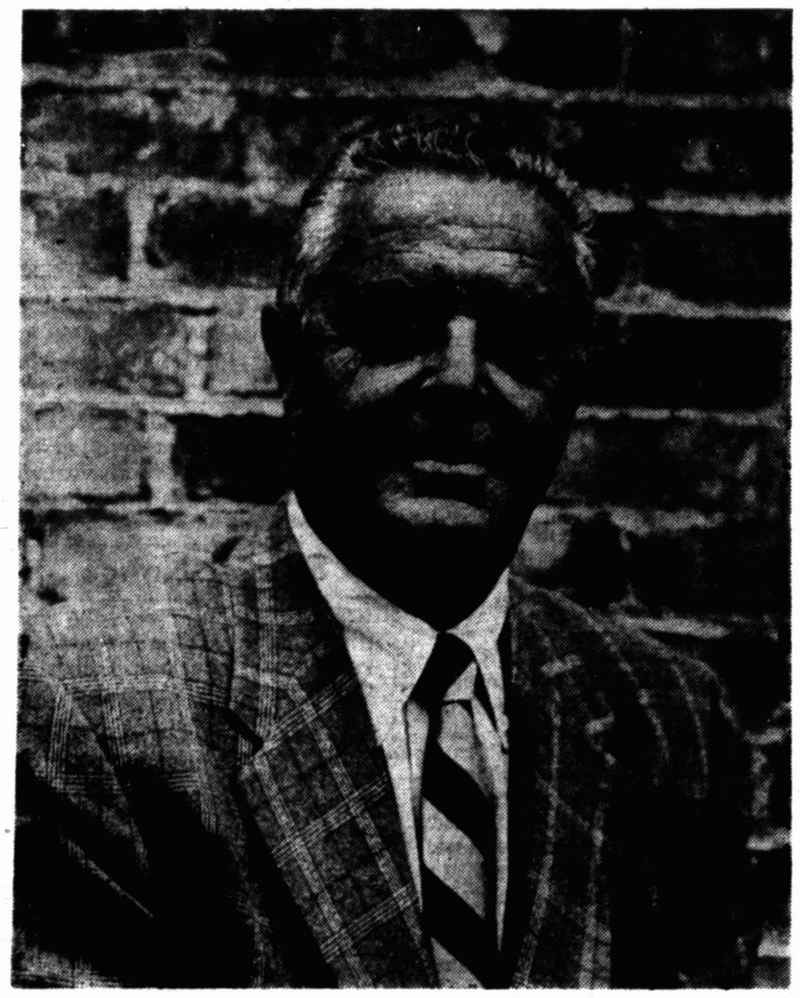
One item, uncovered garbage cans, did appear several times. In the midst of last night's discussion, Mrs. Francis Jacoby, a member of the subcommittee on health, told the board she had just gone down to the cafeteria and found an uncovered garbage can on the cafeteria porch. It contained unwashed dirty cans and "smells like fish" she reported. (The meeting was held at the high school.)

Trustees Steven Sassoon and Clayton Neill Jr., urged action by the board on the reported vending machine health hazard.

Chairman Dr. Robert E. Newton asked Mrs. Jacoby when the health subcommittee's report would be ready for board consideration. She promised that it would be completed by the first week in June and that subcommittee members had been "first class snoopy persons."

Dr. Newton postponed further consideration of the vending machine matter until the first meeting of the board in June when, presumably, the board would have the health committee's report.

The vending machines are operated under a contract between the school district and George Romm.



For 42 more days the pleasant face of the genial gentleman in the picture above will be seen in the Carmel P.G. and E. office, then Lloyd Weer is retiring to do "as little as possible," he says. He has been in the Carmel office for 35 years. When he started work here he was the sole member of the local P.G. and E. staff. Now there are five persons in the office Lloyd Weer manages. He says that accounts have increased five or six times during his three and a half decades of P.G. and E. service.

PLANNERS PROTEST LANDSCAPING MAINTENANCE AT PURITY STORE

A letter protesting the neglected condition of planter boxes on the Purity Store parking lot met with the approval of Carmel Planning commissioners yesterday afternoon. This letter will point out to the proper company authority that the condition does not meet the city's landscaping requirements.

Chairman Dorothy von Meier reported that the manager of the Carmel Purity Store said he had no money for landscaping upkeep in his budget. The letter recommends employment of a garden maintenance service.

Next week, commissioners will prepare a list of business district properties which maintain required landscaping in a commendable manner and send letters of praise.

Arts Commission Hopes To Buy Army Surplus Dwelling

At its May 12 meeting, the Carmel Arts Commission heard its chairman, Mrs. Barbara Norberg, propose that a surplus two-bedroom house from Fort Ord be purchased and moved to the southeast corner of the city-owned Forest Theater property. Mrs. Norberg said this structure could be used as a home for an artist-in-residence who could also serve as the theatre's custodian and caretaker. Cost of providing such a facility was estimated at $3,000 and the commission agreed to place this item in the 1965-66 commission budget which they will present to the city council.

Arts commissioners agreed to ask the Sunset Commission for space at Sunset School for a museum of children's art after the school becomes city property on July 1.

Mrs. Norberg also reported that the Carmel Unified School District will appoint a three-person committee to assist the commission with Carmel's 50th anniversary celebration in 1966.

Cultural Groups Plan To Unify And Support Arts, Inc.

resentative of the Monterey County Symphony, had previously expressed the symphony's interest in such a project. Gordon Hall of the California Festival Theatre Foundation was also unable to be present.

The group decided, unanimously, to recommend to the boards of directors of their organizations that an arts council be formed made up of delegates from each group. Such a council could work closely with Arts, Inc. in selecting a site and planning a building which could adequately serve their needs they agreed. The Sunset School site in Carmel was mentioned as one possibility if it should become available in the near future, but the group felt that they would be agreeable to considering any suitable site on the Peninsula.

Further organizational meetings are planned after those present on Monday have had an opportunity to discuss the project with their boards. It is hoped that, once organized, membership in the proposed arts council can be expanded to include other similar organizations in the area which might like to join.
